Copper declined 5s in London to $405 for spot and £41% for futures. Sales 250 tons spot and 475 tons futures. The domestic market appears weak and flat. The Calumet and Heela company by its recent sale supplied the wants of consumers, and stocks are believed to be ac cumulating on the hands of some of the producing companies. Messrs. Morrison, Kekewich & Co., of London, say, under date of January 3: "Consumption continus excellent, both at home and on the continent, and consumers' stocks are lower than for years. Being engaged in stock taking, only a small business has been done this week in refined copper, The ammunition and war material manufacturers have seldom been busier, and it is evident increased quantities of copper will be required, more especially if the shipbuilding dispute can be brought to a speedy termination. India has, as usual, taken advantage of the fall in prices to make further purchases of both copper and vellow metal, and manufacturers have been able to obtain better prices as compared to G. M. B.'s. The American price has at last been lowered to 10 cents per pound, which equals £46 per ton net f. o. b. New York for Lake copper. The Calumet and Hecla company have made their usual periodical sale to American consumers, obtaining a full price, and the American market is much steadler in consequence. Consumption in America is not as good as it was,

We are pleased to offer our congratula one to the Blight Sons' Fuse Co. on the outcome of their business of the past year, it being the best since they have been in business. The reputation the firm has enjoyed for many years, for making the best fuse, has not suffered any, as is evidenced by the constantly inreasing orders. In addition to selling the best fuse in the country the firm have now the sole agency for the Gold Medal cape and will at all times be ready to fill all orders for same quickly and satisfac-

Well, we have an Upper Peninsula asylum now, and it is evident that we can pay a fairly steep price for it, too. The Upper Peninsula counties have been paying the asylum at Traverse City from 44 to 46 cents per day for the board of the insane. The Newberry asylum charges us 60 cents per day, or $18 per month, for the same service. This makes a diference of $4 per month for each patient or $96 extra for each one for the time, two years, during which the the counties must pay for them. This is in addition to a largely increased cost for clothing the patients to protect them from the intense winter cold we must contend with.

England's Premier Once Followed Jour-

The present prime minister is a man the would have succeeded in almost any great wealth, his opportunities have no doubt been great, but for all that it is to when he was plain Lord Robert Cecil, and before there was any likelihood of his com-ing into the family title and estates. Robert Arthur Tallot Gascoyne-Cecil was born in 1830 and was educated Eton and Christ Church, Oxford. At the university he was a frequent and effective speaker at the Union Debating soci ty, and in 1833 he was elected member of par liament for the family borough of Stam ford. Four years later he married Miss Alderson, daughter of the judge of that name. Her parents were opposed to the union, not considering Lord Robert Could a sufficiently good match. Lord Robert was then a younger son, and with very little money at his disposal. Indeed in the year of his marriage he took to jour-nalism in order to supply the deficiency of a somewhat inadequate allowance. In that year The Saturday Revi started, and soon became famous eleverness, wit and during of its a Lord Robert Ceell was one of the and most valued contributors. It was tween 1859 and 1865 that he made mark in the commons. This was in Lo Palmerston's second administration was in 1865 that his elder brother die and he became Lord Cranborne and h and he became Lord Cranborne and helf to the marquisate. In the following year, on the formation of Lord Derby's third administration, he was appointed secretary of state for India. His father died in 1867, and he came into the title and entered the house of lords. He soon established a reputation as foremost debater in the upper house. In 1874 he took office under Mr. Disraeli, and in 1876 was sent to Constantinople to try and help to settle the dispute between Russia and Turkey. He also went with Lord Beaconsfield to He also went with Lord Beaconsfield to the Berlin congress, and rendered great assistance in that affair.

On the death of Lord Beaconsfield, in 1880, Lord Salisbury became the recognized leader of the Conservative party.

He became premier in June, 1885, on the He became premier in June, 1885, on the resignation of Mr. Gladstone, and again after the general election of 1886. The present is therefore Lord Salisbury's third administration. The Marquis of Salisbury has perhaps won more laurels by his management of foreign affairs than by his domestic policy. Rightly or wrongly, he is credited with great diplomatic skill. When not in London or abroad, Lord Salisbury spends most of his time at his magnificent and historic country seat at Hatfield.

Hatfield House is one of the finest of the ancestral homes of the English nobility.

It was built in the reign of James I, and the date of its completion, 1611, stands over the principal entrance. It is a noble mansion, and its superb park, intersected by avenues of oaks and beeches, almost unequaled in their magnitude and beauty, is one of the most beautiful scenes in the

Hatfield is crowded with objects of his orical interest, not the least remarkable of which are those connected with Queen Elizabeth, of whom there are four or five portraits in the collection. Here we see the queen's silk stockings, claborately em-broidered, the first of their kind ever brought to this country; her garden hat of plaited straw or cane work which she is said to have worn while sitting under an oak, the remains of which still stand in the park, carefully preserved and surrounded by a railing, when the news was brought her that she had succeeded to the throne; her pedigres from Adam, a long roll of parchment, richly illuminated; her jewel case, inhitd with mother of pearl; her cradie, as an infant, made of oak and carved, and other relies.—Spare Moments.
